A PUSHING YOUNG FORGER.

HE IS OVERHAULED AFTER A LONG PERIOD OF SUCCESS.

Frank W. Clarke, Alias Colt. a Crooked Genius of Twenty-Six Years, D fles the Law of the Land Too Long -How His Scheme Was Worked and Who Were the Victims-He Might Soon Have Retired on His Gains.

William F. Clark, alias William F. Colt, although only twenty-six years of age, is one of the most expert and successful forgers and confidence men that have been in the clutches of the police for many a year.

He was captured late Saturday night by Detective Sergts. T tus and McCarthy, of Inspector Byrnes's staff, after nearly three weeks of persistent hard work, and he now languishes in one of the strong cells at Police Hendquarters.

Young Clark's daring financial schemes, or explors, in the brief space of three months have netted him thousands of dollars in ready cash, while his victims are legion, and and as his transactions kept growing larger and larger with each successful attempt, it is fair to presume that, if he had not fallen a victim to the officers of the law, he would ere long have retired from active business. It was less than three weeks a co that com-plaints were coming in to inspector Byrnes from numerous mer hants of a series of forged check swindles by which they lost forged check swindles by which they lost large sums of money. It was ascertained that the mode of operation of the forger was to present a check for a large sum in payment for a bill of good, dc., and to receive in cash, or check, the difference from his vict ms. This difference, of course, was always the forger's profit.

Three mouths ago Clark, who is a tall, alim and good looking young fellow, having the six and good looking young fellow, having

After a good night's rest on American soil, Jake Kilrain, the big defender of the American prize ring, was found by an Eventno WORLD reporter partaking of a hearty breakfast in his room at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Kilrain was attired in a nobby, but not in the least vulgar, suit of English material, and looked the very picture of health. In his immaculate shirt front sparkled a six-carat diamond, with which he now and then toyed, as though proud in its possession.

Across his well-filled waistcoat was heavy gold watch chain, exquisitely woven, and when asked the time he drew forth from one of his pockets a massive chronometer.

Mrs. Kilrain looked admiringly at her husband as he modestly told of his doings on the other side of the pond, and seemed plea ed when he announced his intention of remain-

Jake has entertained a num er of visitors since bis arrival, prominent among whom were Dr. Loomis, Billy Madden, Johnny R. agan, Doc McDonough and Harry Hill.

The first present in America arrived this morning in the shape of a handsome full-booded fox terrier. The little animal seemed to like his new master very much, and Jake is simply delighted with the canine. A BIG CROWD ALTHOUGH THE TICKETS DID COST $5 EACH.

A Fine Parade Before Going Down to New Dorp-There Was Politics in It, Ton, and Man Carried a Bandanna Cane-Mr. Divver Presented with a Beautiful Membership Badge of Gold.

The P. Divver Association clam-bake is on to-day.

The club-room in the flat iron at Park row and the New Bowery was a busy scene this morning.

Five hundred members of the association and the r invited guests met there and in the street below for the start. The tickets went like the proverbial hot cakes at $5 each, and each ticket holder received, besides his right of way to the clambake, a linen duster at $13 a dozen, an ecru chowder hat which were made expressly for the occasion by McGuire, the Bowery hatter

The cam-bake was o be head at Burbank's, New Dorp, S aten Island.

The party paraded from the Chatham square hea quariers to the ferry slip, and a picturesque b dy they made. They marched through New Bowery, Chambers street, Park row, Nassau and Broad streets, and filled one of the Staten Island ferryboats.

Bo-worth's band of sixteen pieces led, and the efficers of the association came next as follows: President, Richard G. Cashman: Vice-Presidents Adam Kammiter and Peter Beyer, and Secretaries T. J. O'Brien and Julius Warganz.

Adermen Ryan, Oakley and Dowling graced the occasion. Ex-Coroner Kennedy, James Ledwith, of the Register's office; Policeman E. Ryan, of the Oak street squad; Capts. Carpenter and McCullough; James Driscoll of the District Attorney's corps, and Nick Brown were also among the "bakers."

Arrived at St. George the partyl took a special train for New Dorp. There they found that Burbank had prepared sumptuously for them.

There were eight succulent and toothsome sucking pigs, browned and crisped in their own sweetness: a double truckload of watermelons to top off with and fifty cases of champagne wherewith to aid the digestion and brighten the wits of the merrymakers. You may be sure that the broad chest of Alderman Divver swelled with pride at this demonstration of his admirers, but there was one number on the programme of which he one number on the programme of which he knew nothing which must have excited another motion in his bosom. Congressman W. Bourke Cockran was engaged for the work and to Mr. Divver was presented a souvenir of the occasion in the form of an honorary member's badge of the

P. Divver Association.

The ox had eyes of half-carat diamonds. Surmounting the ox-head was an eagle, also of gold, with rubies for eyes. A star above this, studded with pearls, and as a pendant to all, was a keystone, with five small diamonds and the monogram of the Association. "P. D. A."

P. D. A. The day was given up to festivity and fun, and some very good Democratic speeches were made, while there was singing and sports among the younger men. The will be back in Park row at 8.30 to-night

CURIOUS CAMPAIGN WORK.

Mr. Ryan's Letter Mysteriously Stamped O Its Way Through the Mails.

A letter was mailed in the city one day last week to Mr. P. Ryan, freight inspector When it was dropped in the letter-box it was free from all marks save the address printed in the proper place. And it had a stamp in the proper pace. And it had a stamp attached.

The course which the letter took is a mystery, but it must have got into the hands of some enthusiastic advocate of protection, for when Mr. Ryan received it it had stamped on its back in the place where the seal is put the pictures of Harrison and Morton.

The pictures were stamped in blue and inclosed in a circle. Whether the person who stamped this Republican advertisement on the letter is a mail carrier or employee in the Post-Office is not known.

Mr. Pearson could not expla n how the picture came to be on the letter, but he said he would institute an investigation immediately and learn, if possible, all about it.

A "Put and Call." A "Put and "all."

This is a funny phrase to the uninitiated, but all the trokers unierstand it. They use it when a person gives a certain per cent. For the option of buying or selling stock on a fixed day, at a price stated on the avine prior is given. It is often a serious operation to the dealer, but there is a more serious "put an call" than this; when you are "put" to sed with a severe cool and your friends "call" a physician. The crew say that Capt. Tait wanted to abandon his ship to recover the insurance, but that he was folled in this by the refusal of his second officer to desert the vessel.

Boatswain Eergquisl told an Evenna Woald reporter the following story of the circumstances attending the abandoning of the Gyffe:

"We sailed," he said, "from Quebec July 3 lumber laden and bound for Greenock Stormy weather was encountered in the Gulf. 3 lumber laden and bound for Greenock Stormy weather was encountered in the Gulf, and our bak began to leak quite rapidly, but not sufficently to cause a y alarm. When we reached the ocean the leak became serious, compelling us to put into St. John, N. B. The vessel then had 10 feet of water in the hold and was almost unseaworthy

"On Aug. 16, after making some repairs, we again continued on our journey. But we again continued on our journey. But before we sailed it became whispered among the crew that the vessel was itill unsea-worthy. It was even said that Capt. Tait knew it and was going to abandon his vessel just as soon as a steamer came along to pick him up. These rumors a armed the crew. Some of them mutined and refused to go aboard their vessel. The cap ain invoked the aid of the police and they were fairly dr.ven abourd.

the aid of the police and they were fairly dr.ven aboard.

"A watchman stood on deck with a pistol in his hand, and refused to allow any of them to leave the vessel. By continual work at the pumps we kept the bark's hold free of water, but on the night of Aug. 19 we were alarmed at finding the water pouring in in regular streams. The pumps would take no suction. I went below, but could find in oscious hole in the vessels. When I came on deck again the water told me there was a large hole in the bow of the bark. It was just below the water line, and looked as though it had just been bored.

"I could not swear to it, but I believe that it was the work of the Captain and his brother.

"On the morning of Aug. 21, when the look-out discovered the Persian Monarch coming towards us, Capt. Tatt ordered the signal of distress displayed. The crew were all aroused and ordered to get ready to leave the vessel. The Captain summoned all the men in the cabin, and made them sign a document swearing that the vessel was unseaworthy.

"His attitude changed the Captain's mind, and he and his brother returned to the vessel together, refusing to leave her. None of the crew would return, and we were advised not to by the officers of the Persian Monarch. I do not think the three officers can make port with the sinking vessel and will be compelled to leave her."

HAMBURG, Aug. 27.—A fire broke out this morning in Steinwarde, the southern part of this city, on the other side of the river. The flames spread rapidly and a guarter of a mile of warehouses and other buildings on the riverside are on fire.

The shipping in the docks has mostly been pulled out, but several vesse s have been destroyed. It was at one time feared the flames would cross the river th ough the shipping and communicate with he vessels in the docks, but the hauling out of the vessels in the Steinwarde docks and a change of wind averted the danger. The loss of property on the docks and among the shipping is very heavy.
